

Puppet House Mediation, February 2, 2016

Mediation began in early May 2015 with a formal meeting between Legacy, the Town, the individual plaintiffs and SCA representatives in the presence of Judge Corradino. In October 2015 the parties met with the Judge again. Since the second formal mediation meeting in October it was decided SCA and Legacy Theater might meet outside the formal setting to possibly speed things up.

The current group consisting of the SCA representatives (Greg Ames, Jake Greenvall, Sam Kirby), the other plaintiffs (Eleanor and Jim Stach and Joan Johnson) and their representatives (Betsy Wieland, Linda Reed and Brian Ameche), and representatives from Legacy Theater (Greg Nobile, Stephanie Stiefel Williams and Tom Shea) have met twice in December and once again in January for the purpose of moving towards an agreement. The next meeting for this group is scheduled this Monday. The group will schedule following meetings at intervals of less than two weeks. The hope is to resolve issues within the next few meetings. After that, the intention is to return to a formal mediation with Judge Corradino, Attorney Bill Aniscovich, Attorney Tim Lee, and Attorney Bill Strub to craft an agreement.
